Were there any significant obstacles to learning that were beyond the control of the instructor (e.g., scheduling or technology problems, university closings, limitations caused by other students or by group dynamics)? If so, please explain.

What 2-3 aspects of this course were most valuable to your learning experience?

Comments
the projects. and topics were fun and interesting.
The activities that the professor had for us participate in that really drove home the contect. It was fun while also being hands on, and interactive. I liked the games he had us play and how we had to interact with each other in other to understand the lesson.
I really enjoyed this course and how it covered several topics regarding economics. I enjoyed the daily quizzes, I enjoyed the examples, and the comprehension checks.
I felt that giving the presentation was helpful to my learning experience, along with the other interactive aspects of the class.
Teacher facilitated an open environment where students were allowed to ask questions, teacher was engaging
N/A
Game theory, the book Why Nations Fail.
I appreciated the humor and real–life examples and scenarios that Professor Brown brought to a subject that was entirely new to me. He met us where we were at (without strong Economics backgrounds), and taught the material in a way that connected to Global Affairs. I also appreciated the open–ended nature of the group and final assignments.
I like the group discussions and the comprehension checks. It gave us a chance to make sure we understood something and that we were paying attention essentially.
– I learned how markets work. – Learning about game theory has been very useful for my future career. – This class helped me understand how the economy operates, and it provided a visual representation of my previous learnings about capitalism, highlighting its significant influence through graphs and numbers.
NA
learning basic economic principles and how to apply them to my field
Learning how to utilize economic tools and graphing, as well as learning game theory.

What 2-3 aspects of this course were least valuable to your learning experience?

Comments
some of the objectives we were learning felt bland.
It was kind of hard to understand some aspects of the things he was teaching because he didn't seem to understand things fully.
I felt like the midterm test was not that valuable, since it was difficult to answer questions about economics in a test format. Many of the readings were very dense and were boring.
Last minute reading assignments

The slide shows were a little bare and it was sometimes hard to understand what the topic was about.

long readings, game theory drawings
The professor is a nice man but I felt his low experience in teaching kinda shows throughout the course. It didn't hinder my learning necessarily but I felt we could've learned better and more in general if we had a more experienced economics professor.

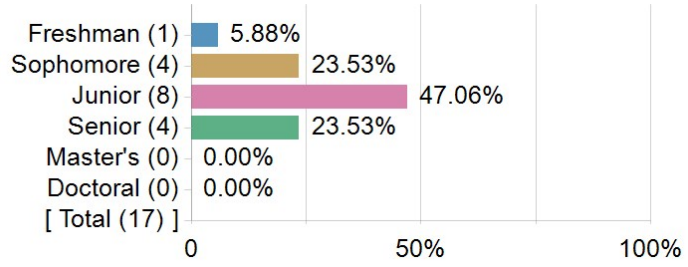

What modifications do you suggest for the next time the course is taught?

Comments
more projects and class involvement. having a clear path on what the class will do. more confidence in oneself and a clearer schedule. keep up the personality.
I think with more expirience he will get better.
I really enjoyed when we played the game that involved guessing what the other person would do and I would like to do more interactive activities.
Less readings or more interesting readings.

It was a great class, I do not have any suggestions. It should stay the way it is.
N/A
A little more information on the slides would be nice
Talk though more examples of the economic theory discussed in class
NA
n/a more practical applications or seeing them in the real world instead of just theory
For a 300–leveled econ class, I feel the professors should be a little more experienced in teaching.
